OFFICE OF SECRETARY,
SOCORRO, NEW MEXICO, April 1, 1885. }

The first issue of the Brand Book of the Central New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association contains a list of the officers of the association and membership, with postoffice address. The "Brand Index" is an entirely new feature in a brand book, and we believe will be found a great convenience in obviating the necessity of looking the book through, leaf by leaf, to find any particular brand.

While exceptional care has been taken in all the details of issuing this Brand Book to prevent errors, yet some errors are bound to occur, for which due allowance is asked.

G. L. BROOKS, Secretary.

WHEREAS, The cattle breeding, growing, and ranching business is fast becoming one of the foremost and most important interests in the Territory of New Mexico; and

WHEREAS, The business of breeding, growing and ranching cattle can be much more economically and successfully conducted by the association together of stock growers for mutual assistance and protection; and

WHEREAS, There have been and are now at large unpunished and unapprehended, by those whose business it is to apprehend and prosecute law breakers, cattle thieves and other enemies to the private interests of individuals and to the public peace and welfare; and

A Business that is not always well understood by the Public.

A man sometimes gets an idea in reading an advertisement and this is not an advertisement unless we choose to make it so. Do you know that no one has so much to do with keeping the actual cost of living at the minimum in a community as the Commission Merchant? He deals largely in surplus production and draws his supplies largely from an overstocked market. The result is that regular prices are obliged to conform to his sales in order to do business. A Commission House with a large capital furnishes the best source of supply to the wholesale and retail dealer and ranchman in which to "fill up" their orders at home. They are the most welcome class of merchants in any city. To them come special bargains that do not go to regular dealers, because the man who has a regular customer does not want to break the price and cut himself off from future profits. The Commission man, if he has capital, takes those bargains in and divides the profits of the venture with his customer at home.

D. L. SAMMIS & Co., are Commission Merchants of over three years standing in the Territory. They have capital and experience to carry on their business with success; they handle everything in the Produce line, preferring always to buy at a bargain, but will receive any kind of goods in their line on commission.

We fill orders for all descriptions of Merchandise, excepting Wine, Beer and Liquors, at market rates. Orders from strangers must be accompanied with remittance or good reference. We allow no goods to go out but such as are in good condition. Potatoes, vegetables, etc., are always shipped full weight but there is more or less shrinkage in transportation which we cannot be held accountable for.
